

Labor Conflicts Face New Tests In Coming Week

Auto Union Leader Says Sit-Down 'Still Effective'

MEETS OPPOSITION

Three Governors Take Stand Against Sit-Down Moves

By the Associated Press
A troublesome week on the wide labor conflict front ended today with new tests of strength indicated.

With an estimated 30,000 workers still idle because of controversies many of which involved the sit-down, President Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers of America took occasion to assert this strike weapon was "still effective."

His remarks in New York apparently were motivated by setbacks to sit-downers during the week at Waukegan, Ill., and Santa Monica, Calif.

Governor Elmer A. Benson of Minnesota, championing the cause of striking utility workers in Minneapolis, announced through his secretary he was prepared to take over the strike bound Northern States Power company plants if he finds authority in law.

The first outbreak to mar the peaceful mood of a so-called Detroit labor dispute resulted in injuries to a woman and two men at the Ferro Stamping company when lead pellets were hurled in a row between union and non-union forces in the continuing argument over the sit-down strike, at least three governors have voiced opposition to this technique.

Governor Henry Horner of Illinois said there was no warrant in law to justify a so-called sit-down strike. Governors William C. Hoffman of Connecticut and Harold C. Tamm of New Jersey warned they would tolerate no sit-down strikes in their states.

Ford Plant Target
The committee for industrial organization pushed plans for unionizing the Ford Motor company assembly plant at Edgewater, employing 3,700 workers, and the Federal Ship Building and Dry Dock at Kearny, employing 4,000.

Sheriff's deputies arrested two C. I. O. organizers in Waukegan, Ill., who were charged with conspiring to prevent execution of a court writ for the arrest of sit-down strikers in the Fawcett Metallurgical corporation plants. Five other organizers were being sought by deputies. Sixty-one sit-downers were evicted yesterday in a tear gas attack. They mapped plans for a picket strike.

Sit-down strikers arrested after holding the Douglas Aircraft corporation plant at Santa Monica, Calif., were released last night on their own recognizance, pending hearings next week. Union organizers planned to picket the plant in an effort to prevent its reopening.

To Resume Operations
Officials of the Northrop Aircraft factory, a Douglas subsidiary, said the plant would resume operations Monday. It was closed when 200 of 1,150 employees went on a sit-down strike Thursday.

The U. A. W. A., an affiliate of the C. I. O., recessed negotiations with General Motors conferences at Detroit until Monday after reaching tentative agreements on all points except hours and wages. Next week the union will open negotiations with the Chrysler Automobile corporation.

U. A. W. A. representatives and company officials sought to end a dispute which caused closing of the Fisher Body and Chevrolet assembly plants at Janesville, Wis. The factories, employing 2,700 men, closed after friction developed between union and non-union factions.

Governor Benson of Minnesota went to Washington to enlist the aid of federal conciliators in the strike of electrical workers at the Northern States Power Co. Hundreds of homes suffered interruptions in electrical service during the last three days.

Meanwhile, a number of small strikes were settled.

Hoboes' Ball Won't Face Interference Of Chicago Police

Chicago—(P)—Along the skidroad the word was passed today that McGinnis has been fixed and the stiffs can jig unrestrained tonight at the hoboes' ball.

Translated, W. Madison street's vagabondia heard the welcome report that the law would not interfere with the "jungle fiesta for forgotten men," for the Knowledge Box billed as a hobo college and "cultural center for a hundred thousand homeless boys."

"McGinnis" is Hobohemia's universal and collective name for coppers, flautists, bulls and clowns. In short, policemen.

Statistical Bill Brundage, prexy and dean of McGinnis was authorities for the claim McGinnis was "right" today.

The vagabondia ball, Statistical Bill said, was arranged to "mitigate the voracity of a couple of wolves and a hostile landlord which are howling outside our door."

Find Body of Kidnaped Baby In Argentina

Three-Day Hunt. Similar To Lindbergh Case, Stirred Nation

PARENTS WEALTHY

Kidnaping Brought Greatest Manhunt in History of Republic

LaPlata, Argentina—(P)—The unclothed body of Baby Eugenio Peyrera Iraola, whose three-day kidnaping stirred Argentina as the Lindbergh case gripped the United States, was found today in the grime of a pig pen on the baronial estancia of his wealthy parents.

The little body, bearing a scalp wound and a cut on one leg, was discovered in an outlying part of "La Sorpresa," his parents' great estancia, about a mile and a half from the house.

The chubby arms were crossed over the chest. The clothing was not found.

An immediate examination was begun at the estancia, where the blue-eyed, 2-year-old baby lived with his parents and six brothers and sisters, to determine the exact cause of death.

It was believed he had been killed Thursday, the day after he was kidnaped.

A laconic communique from provincial police, who have searched the rich resort countryside for three frenzied days for some trace of the child or his abductors said merely the body had been found.

Kidnaped Wednesday

It gave no theories as to who carried the boy away from the flower-bordered gardens of the estancia shortly after 7 o'clock last Wednesday evening while the baby's mother left his side to greet her husband, a wealthy sportsman and horse fancier, upon his return from another of his ranches.

The announcement said nothing to indicate which, if any, of several suspects now held, was believed responsible for the crime.

But it was known the police, at first believing remnants of the kidnap band of the late "Pibe Cabeza" ("Baby Face") after a fit of coughing. The house was full of smoke. He opened a window and then aroused his sister, telling her to "get the rest of them and come to the window."

Johnson 23, and his 19-year-old sister, Evelyn, escaped by leaping from a window. Evelyn, suffering severe burns on her arms, was brought to an Escanaba hospital. Doctors said she would recover.

Roy, who, with Evelyn was sleeping downstairs discovered the fire when awakened by a fit of coughing. The house was full of smoke. He opened a window and then aroused his sister, telling her to "get the rest of them and come to the window."

Evelyn said she found her mother standing near her bed. "She didn't say anything, just stared," Evelyn said. "Then she turned to get others. I didn't see her after that."

Johnson 52, and his son Helmer 21 were attending a sick cow in the barn when they learned of the fire. Helmer made several unsuccessful attempts to rescue his mother and brothers and sisters. He said the flames spread rapidly after the window was opened.

Johnson said he believed the fire was caused by an overheated fire. After the family returned from church last night, he fired the stove heavily and then went to the barn. Apparently, he said, the draft was not closed.

Two of Johnson's sons Iver, 32 and Felix, 30, live in Escanaba.

Still Explosion Near Milwaukee

House Contained Elaborate Equipment, Deputy Sheriffs Report

Milwaukee—(P)—One of the most elaborate stills found in Wisconsin since a recent explosion early today in a two-story brick residence in Milwaukee township, north of the city.

Sheriff's deputies said the house contained a 1,000 gallon a day still 15,000 gallons of fermenting mash 100 gallons of rectified alcohol 400 pounds of sugar and a large quantity of yeast.

The blast set the house afire causing damage estimated at $5,000. It was unexplained and if any attendant was present when the still exploded he had left before the town fire department and deputies arrived.

Near the damaged still deputies discovered an application for a driver's license. State treasury agents said the name on the application corresponded with that of a man wanted in connection with other illegal distilleries.

Officials of a building and loan association which owned the residence said it had been rented in January to a man giving his name as Lenz.

The association will hold a two-day convention at Oshkosh March 23-24.

Hill said Edminster would explain in detail the trade agreement with Canada, and would then answer delegates' questions.

2 Ohio Senators In Disagreement On Court Program

Donahy Against Roosevelt Plan, While Bulkley Favors It

Washington—(P)—Senator Donahy (D-Ohio) spoke out today against President Roosevelt's court reorganization program after his colleague, Senator Bulkley, endorsed it as an effort "to restore our form of government."

Donahy in his first public statement on the court issue said:

"This entire controversy vitally affects the judiciary, a coordinate branch of the government, and should be referred to the people—the source of all political power."

Bulkley, also a Democrat, declared in a radio speech last night that opponents "should frankly take the position which they are really supporting—that of unqualified judicial supremacy."

Donahy's declaration did not add to the total of senators publicly committed, however, because earlier word had come from his office on his stand Bulkley had indicated his views previously.

The number of senators publicly opposing the chief executive's proposal remained at 33 but the list of those openly favoring the plan dropped to 25.

Half a dozen of those once counted for the president asserted during the last few days that they were noncommittal.

Opposition leaders declared another senator or two would speak out against the presidential program early next week. They said nine more were privately pledged to oppose the measure.

They, as well as administration forces, were watching anxiously for any sign that the voluntary retirement bill passed by congress might bring withdrawals from the supreme court and possibly clear the way for a compromise settlement of the nationwide dispute.

Pearson Shooting Is Termed as Accidental

Banning, Calif.—(P)—The shooting to death of screen writer Humphrey Pearson after a gay round of night clubs was termed "accidental" by one officer today, as the coroner called an inquest here.

Sheriff Carl Rayburn said he was convinced that Pearson, "gun conscious whenever he had too much" liquor, grabbed a pistol at his home in Palm Springs Wednesday night and it was discharged when his wife tried to take it away from him.

Since Mrs. Pearson was found sitting beside the body of the scenarioist, she has been confined to a Riverside hospital.

No investigators have been able to obtain a coherent account from her.

Statements of the Pearson's Negro butler and two companions on a round of night clubs were the basis of Sheriff Rayburn's opinion.

Survivor Believes Flames Originated From Overheated Flue

Escanaba, Mich.—(P)—Nels Johnson, 50, four of her nine children and her granddaughter burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their story and a half log cabin farm home near Danforth.

Besides Mrs. Johnson, the dead were Arthur Johnson, 17, his brothers, Arnold, 15, and Robert 4, his sister, Ruth, 15, and his niece, Barbara Williams, 6.

All were trapped while they slept in upstairs rooms.

Roy Johnson 23, and his 19-year-old sister, Evelyn, escaped by leaping from a window. Evelyn, suffering severe burns on her arms, was brought to an Escanaba hospital. Doctors said she would recover.

Proponents of the stack technique were ready to match their style against the singleton system and were backing their claims heavily with side bets.

One group maintained the singleton system wasted too much time in buttering and siruping. The other contended stackers always get sirup on their chins and vests than inside their mouths.

That's an important point in the competition, for sirup and butter as well as the cakes will figure in tonight's tournament. A record of the amounts used by each entry will be kept, and all cakes, their size kept uniform through use of a

Dancer Denies She Was Prompted in Heart Balm Suit

Replies to District Attorney's Suggestion of Blackmail

New York—(P)—Peggy Garcia the blonde former follies girl who sued Dave Rubinoff for $500,000 fidgeted in her cell at the women's house of detention today and denied that her suit against the fiddling maestro was anybody's idea but her own.

Asked about the district attorney's suggestion that there might be a blackmail ring behind her unsuccessful heart balm action, Peggy protested:

"Why, the very idea of such a thing it was my own idea. My very own I started it three years ago. Dave took—well, she cast down her eyes modestly. "he took advantage of me and I thought he ought to pay."

Peggy glanced repeatedly at the door, because she was waiting with mounting impatience for her bail bond to arrive.

Still immaculate after spending the last two nights in jail, with her platinum head sleekly coiffed and her flaming purple dress and seal-skin coat making her an odd figure in her drab prison surroundings, Peggy talked about policemen food and burlesque as a theatrical art.

"Food is Terrible!"

"The policemen are adorable. The matrons are grand. But—the food is terrible," she said. As for burlesque, "Burlesque—why, that's the lowest form of theatrical art. Stripping anything I wouldn't think of such vulgarities."

Indicted with Peggy for bigamy was her husband Michael LaRocca, salesman who was accused by another woman of being her common law mate.

Double trouble plagued them both. An assistant district attorney said he was going to offer evidence of perjury against Peggy, incident to her unsuccessful suit against Rubinoff to the grand jury.

Facing LaRocca was a charge that he had written a check on a bank which professed not to know him. She pleaded innocent to the bigamy charge. LaRocca will plead Tuesday.

Ask Investigation Bureau for State

Conference Also Wants Badger Police Communication System

Madison—(P)—The first Wisconsin conference on crime control recommended today a state criminal investigation bureau and a state communication system for peace officers.

It suggested that the bureau serve as a headquarters for criminal identification, statistics and a force of trained investigators ready to help any law officer.

Other resolutions adopted by the conference at its closing session yesterday favored expansion of the university's scientific crime investigation service, investigation of the possibilities of wholly indeterminate sentences and of medical and educational treatment of prisoners and a study of municipal and county jails which were termed "our most fruitful source of criminals."

The conference set up a committee authorized to call further meetings at least once every two years. Chester Allan of the university extension division was named permanent secretary. The conference asked the legislature to appoint an interim committee to work with the permanent organization.

William Oldiges, Milwaukee probation officer, proposed the study of jail Colonel John J. Hannan, president of the state board of control, said the board can declare a jail unfit for human habitation but does not have power to close it.

Fishing Trawler Taken In Tow by Coast Guard

Boston—(P)—The coast guard cutter Chelan today found the Boston fishing trawler Goscor missing since she lost her propeller Thursday and took her in tow, 20 miles east of Highland light.

The Chelan wire-reeled coast guard headquarters at the Goscor had been endeavoring to make port under sail after the mishap which occurred when the vessel was 140 miles east of Boston.

Early today the patrol boat Faunce reported to coast guard headquarters it had taken in tow the schooner Gratitude L. Trebaud of Gloucester, famed American contender in the international fisherman's races with the Nova Scotian vessel Bluenose.

The Faunce said the Trebaud had "broken down," which was taken to mean her engines were disabled. The Faunce said it found the Trebaud 70 miles northeast of Cape Ann and was towing her to Gloucester.

Lieutenants Are Killed

Chicago—(P)—Two lieutenants of the United States Army air reserve were killed today in the crash of their training ship shortly after they had taken off from the municipal airport.

Ten minutes after they lifted the plane from the field it dropped into a prairie about three blocks away along the right of way of the Bell Railway company.

Handsome Ernie Keeps Position. Strike Is Ended

Irthlingborough, England—(P)—Handsome Ernest fled into hiding today to escape 300 admiring laundry girls who called a strike because he was to be transferred as foreman to another plant.

Only Ernie's pretty 24-year-old wife was at home to greet the girls when they came to tell the man who made them think of sheiks instead of sheets they had agreed to go back to work.

Standing in the doorway of the little home she shares with the 25-year-old foreman—he is "Clark Gable" to all the girls—Ernie's wife gravely told them:

"I think it is a splendid tribute to his work."

Back at the laundry, where negotiations were under way with the management to let Ernie stay as their boss, the girls rubbed out their strike sign "We Want Ernie," and in its place chalked in big bold letters:

"Happy Days Are Here Again."

No Fight Likely Over Vandebush Custody, Report

Desperado to be Tried in New York State on Robbery Charge

New York—(P)—A warrant for the removal of Merle Vandebush, 29-year-old Wisconsin bad man, from Westchester to New Jersey to face trial for the kidnaping of a New Jersey state trooper was signed today by United States Commissioner Isaac Platt in federal court.

White Plains, N. Y.—(P)—An inquest squalid among two states and the federal government over the right to try Merle Vandebush, kidnaping and bank robbery suspect, apparently was averted today by New York's "clean case" against him.

Nailed Thursday by a trio of what he called "country cops" shortly after he and two confederates held up and robbed the Northern Westchester Bank of Katonah, the Green Bay, Wis. gunman will be tried in New York state on an indictment charging first degree robbery.

Both federal and state prosecutors in New Jersey, holding kidnaping warrants against Vandebush in the abduction of State Trooper William A. Turnbull, deferred to what District Attorney Walter A. Ferris of Westchester county called a "clean case."

To guard against his possible release however they filed detainers for Vandebush.

Ferris said he believed he could resist easily a move announced in Milwaukee by E. J. Koelzer, assistant United States attorney to return Vandebush to Wisconsin for trial on a series of bank robbery charges.

Vandebush faces a prison term of 30 to 60 years in the event of conviction on the New York indictment. Facing prosecution with him under identical indictments are George and Anthony Rera cousins. Police said Anthony Rera was on parole from Sing Sing prison where he was sent for robbery.

Identify Suspect in Robbery at Madison

Madison—(P)—Detective Captain Leo Kinney said the two victims of the $73,000 Celon company roll holdup yesterday had identified John Scalise, 25, Madison as the leader of the three robbers.

Kinney said Scalise had $900 in $20 bills, when arrested last night, and that the prisoner told him he won the money gambling.

The police officers added both Charles E. Murphy and Elmer Olson pointed out Scalise as the one who seized from Murphy the bag carrying the money.

Police arrested "free other suspects but released one when his employer verified his statement he was at work at the time."

Two Army Air Reserve Lieutenants Are Killed

Chicago—(P)—Two lieutenants of the United States Army air reserve were killed today in the crash of their training ship shortly after they had taken off from the municipal airport.

Ten minutes after they lifted the plane from the field it dropped into a prairie about three blocks away along the right of way of the Bell Railway company.

The flies were Lieutenant John Spake, 30, and Second Lieutenant Clyde M. Wood, 26, both of Chicago. Both were co-pilots for a commercial airline, but were on two weeks active duty with the air reserve.

'Nation That Destroys Soil Destroys Self,' He Says

MAPS LEGISLATION

Sends Identical Letters to All 48 Governors

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt requested all 48 states today to enact soil conservation laws to bulwark the federal fight against dust storms and floods.

"The nation that destroys its soil destroys itself," he said in identical letters to state governors.

With the letters went copies of a state soil conservation bill prepared by the agriculture department in cooperation with representatives of many states.

It provides for the organization of soil conservation districts to carry on erosion control projects, with the aid of federal funds, and for enactment of land-use regulations after they are approved by local referenda.

The suggested state laws would have no bearing on the federal soil conservation benefit payments, but their enactment would be necessary before states could receive any federal funds for conservation demonstration work.

Urges Legislation

"I hope that you will see fit," the president wrote, "to make the adoption of legislation along the lines of the standard act part of the agricultural program for your state."

Sit-Down Strikes Local Question, Federal Position

National Administration
Adopts Hands-Off Policy in Disputes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Growth of the sit-down strike as a weapon of labor warfare throughout the country has resulted, so far as the national administration is concerned, in a hands-off policy.

Whatever evicting or enjoining or indicting has to be done will have to be by local authorities—governors, sheriffs, chiefs of police.

Within the administration, of course, there are two views about the sit-down strike, those who think them illegal and those who recognize that sit-down strikes may be declared illegal but that no final opinion has been rendered on the subject by a high court.

Meanwhile, the employer whose property is seized or the workman whose job is stopped by the act of a fellow workman will have to seek redress through local governments. This, of course, is in line with the precedents because employer and employee relations are considered wholly a matter for state action except in the few instances where interstate commerce is clearly defined as, for example, in the transportation business.

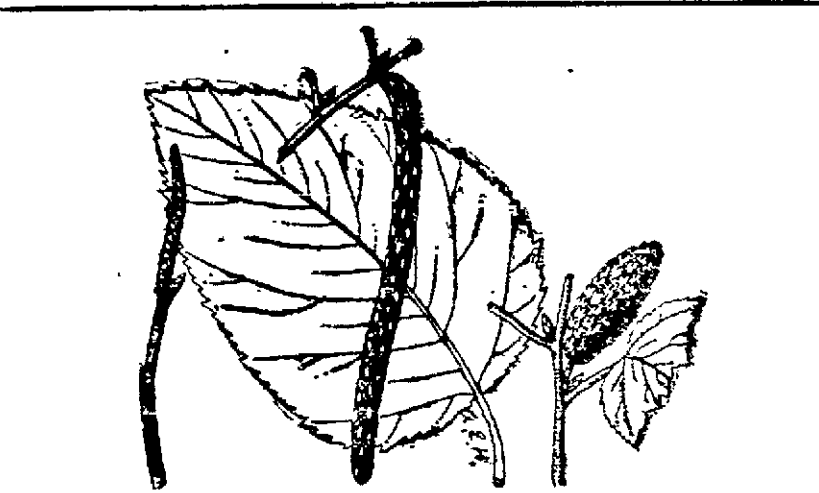

There is a ground on which the federal government might intervene if it desired. That is where a conspiracy is hatched across state lines to get a group of workmen to interfere with the processes of production. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the famous Coronado case, has held that any physical acts of interference with the actual production or shipment of goods could be regarded as a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Difficult to Prove
But such a conspiracy is difficult to prove, as is also the purpose of the strike. The workmen would contend that their purpose is not to prevent shipment into interstate commerce, but to prevent other workmen from taking their jobs. Whether such a contention would be accepted by a court is something else.

It is doubtful if any such case would ever be brought by the federal authorities. This is because the entire federal government at the moment is dominated by the view that labor warfare is justified and that neither the courts nor the federal department of justice should be used to interfere even remotely with the right to strike.

For many years, labor unions

Native Wisconsin Trees Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

PAPER BIRCH
The paper or white birch is found throughout the state and occurs chiefly on the better sand and gravel soil in mixture with pine and aspen.
The paper birch is a medium sized tree 50 to 75 feet in height with a diameter of 1 to 2 feet, in close stands. The trunk is clear, often forking near the tops.
The leaves are ovate, 2 to 3 inches long, upper surface dark green, under surface light green, narrow, pointed or rounded at the base, sharply pointed at the apex and sharply pointed at the apex.
As with all the birches, the male and female flowers occur on the same tree, the flowers being catkins. The fruit is cone shaped, about 1 1/2 inches long and composed of scales and small winged nutlets. The bark on young trunks and large limbs is thin, creamy white, separating into thick papery layers, pale orange colored when first exposed to the light, becoming dark and rough on old trunks.

The wood is light, strong, hard, light reddish-brown with thick, light sapwood. It is used for spools, pegs and pulpwood in the east. In Wisconsin it is occasionally cut into lumber. The bark is still used to some extent by the Chippewas for canoes and baskets.

have enjoyed exemption under the federal laws from being prosecuted for acts which would amount to monopoly if practiced by corporations. This exemption is due, of course, to the political power of the labor groups.

Not is there much sympathy with the view so often expressed by citizens that the federal government should take cognizance of the sit-down strikes and put them down. The administration points to the fact that employers uniformly have objected to the Wagner labor relations act on the ground that the federal government had no authority in labor disputes.

Probable Decision
The Wagner act itself has been fought by the injunction process, and the Supreme Court of the United States has heard argument but has not yet rendered its opinion on the validity of the statute. The general guess among well-informed lawyers is that the supreme court will decide all the various cases at about the same time and that it will uphold the law where the company in question is clearly engaged in interstate commerce and that it will hold the act inoperative so far as a company engaged in local production is concerned.

While the whole series of strike episodes is causing widespread economic

Jobs in Appleton Factories Above Pre-Crash Level

Employment, Pay Rolls,
Both Above 1925-
27 Average

December employment in Appleton factories was greater than the average for 1925-27, the January labor market report of the state industrial commission shows. Pay rolls reached a new peak of 106.7 per cent of the 1925-27 average.

With 34 firms reporting, Appleton employment increased .9 per cent and aggregate weekly payroll 1.6 per cent from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, the report stated.

The number of workers increased from 3,114 Nov. 15 to 3,143 a month later while pay rolls increased from $69,182 to $70,302. Average per capita weekly earnings Dec. 15 were $22.17.

Green Bay reported a 4 per cent decline in employment and a 1.8 per cent decrease in pay rolls but Fond du Lac had a 21 per cent gain in number of jobs and 2.6 per cent rise in aggregate wages. Neenah-Menasha was up .4 per cent in employment and .7 per cent in pay rolls while Oshkosh reported a .7 decline in employment and a .49 per cent gain in pay roll total.

Gain Over Last Year
With the monthly average of 1925-27 as a mean, Appleton's employment of 100.7 per cent in December marked a gain not only over the corresponding months of 1935 and it was a general strike in England which brought parliament to pass the present industrial disputes act which covers a certain amount of government supervision of labor unions.

The disposition here is to believe that the labor troubles will continue during the remainder of 1937 in more or less sporadic form and that perhaps the struggle will become even more far-reaching as "sit-down" strikers and other labor disputes are carried into the larger industries.

1934 but over the preceding October and November.

The 1937 pay roll percentage showed a substantial advance in December 1935 the figure was 88.8 and in December 1934, 70.9.

In the state as a whole, factory employment and pay rolls increased .1 per cent and 1 per cent respectively between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15. This was a contra-seasonal gain, since the average seasonal change for this monthly period is a loss of 1.1 per cent in employment and 2.3 per cent in pay rolls, based on the records of the years 1922-35.

Factory employment increased in 18 out of 31 of the principal industrial cities of Wisconsin during the 30-day period included in the report while pay rolls increased in 19 of these cities.

In 1936, factory employment in Wisconsin averaged 6 per cent more workers than in 1935, 46.5 more than in 1932 and 7.6 per cent less than in 1929. Pay rolls in 1936 were 14.4 per cent greater than in 1935, 105.2 per cent greater than in 1932 and only 18 per cent less than in 1929.

Rohan Wants Referendum On $5 Car License Fee

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—When Assemblyman William Rohan of Kaukauna sets his mind on a goal, he is not easily discouraged. This was demonstrated Friday when he brought his bill for a flat $5 automobile registration fee, vetoed again and again during the last three weeks, before his fellow assemblymen once more in a move frankly intended to put his opponents "on the spot."

Rohan introduced a resolution asking for a popular vote on the question of the reduced license fee, which Progressives and their supporters in the house had killed on the floor twice before on the ground that it is not in the true interests of the farmer and the laborer.

The question to be submitted to the people, if the resolution is adopted, is as follows: "Shall the legislature provide for a flat registration fee of $5 for all passenger automobiles commencing with the calendar year 1938?"

Just before adjournment Friday E. D. Hall, Monroe Progressive, and mutant foe of Rohan's bill in every debate, submitted an amendment which would add the following words to the referendum question, "and thereby reduce state revenues by six million dollars or more and place this burden on the general property tax payers."

Opponents of Rohan's bill have consistently maintained that such a large reduction in registration fees would cripple the state's highway building and maintenance program and would cut off state aids to counties and cities for highway purposes through decreasing highway revenues below the minimum required for statutory purposes.

Rohan has countered with the declaration that low income drivers would once more bring their cars on the highways and would repay in gasoline taxes the loss to the state in registration fees. Further, Rohan maintains, the constituents in his second Outagamie county district demand a reduction.

Eighty Men's Suits, Valued Between $1,000 and $1,200, Taken

The place had been entered by burglars who jimmied the lock on the front door. It is believed the place was broken into between 12 and 4 o'clock this morning.

No other articles of merchandise were missing, an incomplete check of the stock made by Levenberg this morning showed. He placed the value of the missing suits at between $1,000 and $1,200.

Sheriff Gerhard Jensen was notified and finger prints, the only possible clue, were taken.

Battles Due on Major Issues in State Assembly

Labor Disputes Bill to Occupy Center of Legislative Stage Next Week

Madison—(P)—The assembly has the decks cleared for partisan battles next week on some of the major issues confronting the state legislature.

Administration leaders in the house will press for early passage of the controversial Sigman labor disputes bill. The joint finance committee, which received the bill after it was approved on a test vote in the assembly, reported it back without change.

Progressives expect to see the "little Wagner act" clear the first barrier without trouble, but when it reaches the senate, where party lines are more closely drawn, it may run into difficulties.

Trouble also is brewing in two house camps—Republican and Progressive—over the plan to impose civil service on employees of the state beverage tax division, which has been referred to as the "pie counter" of the state service.

Examinations Issue
It has now boiled down to the question of when these employees shall be required to take competitive examinations—now or next July. An administration bill fixes July 1 as the date. Vernon Thomson, youthful Republican from Richland Center, wants the change to be made immediately, as his bill provides.

Over Thomson's loud protests, the assembly sent both measures to the finance committee for hearing Tuesday with the understanding they will be reported back promptly.

Young Progressive assemblymen strongly committed to partisan principles, had to retreat this week after they had stalled for proposals to get an expression from the voters on whether county officials should be elected on non-partisan tickets.

Some of the older Progressives switched to the Democrats and Republicans in approving the Grosvenor-Daugs resolution to put the question to a statewide referendum in April. They held the resolution in the assembly, however, and expected to move for reconsideration Monday with the time element in their favor.

Speed Necessary
The secretary of state said he had to have final action by Wednesday if the referendum is to go on the ballot and the resolution still must be approved by the senate.

The house morally is bound to start its working week Monday instead of Tuesday since it has voted for a five-day week. So the members decided to meet in formal session Monday night after the weekend adjournment.

They made another move to keep the legislative machine in gear—docking their pay for excessive absences—but after thinking this action over for a day, and with some doubt that it could be enforced, they left the matter in the hands of the rules committee.

Pinball Hearing
Outstanding committee hearing this week brought the operators of pinball games to Madison asking for regulation rather than prohibitive legislation.

Wisconsin tobacco interests conducted a mass attack on the cigarette tax bill and induced an assembly committee to recommend its defeat.

The senate, moving through a calendar of minor bills straightened out the trouble caused in the public service commission by two vacancies on the three-man body. It confirmed Robert A. Nixon, Bayfield, former Progressive floor leader in the assembly, who was appointed by Governor LaFollette to fill one of the vacancies.

FILE INSURANCE POLICY

Badger Democrats May Favor Popular Vote for President

Washington—(P)—Wisconsin Democrats indicated today they were not unfriendly to the proposal to substitute popular vote for the electoral college in electing presidents.

Representative Dewey Johnson, Minneapolis, Minn., Farmer-Laborite, proposed such a change in a constitutional amendment offered this week. He said he thought its adoption would make it easier for a national third party to enter the political field.

Senator E. Ryan Duffy, Wisconsin Democrat, said he thought he "probably would favor the idea."

"Though I don't see where it makes much difference," he added. "Anyway, I wouldn't have any great objections to such a change. But I don't think a third party has a chance in the national field."

Representative Thomas O'Malley, Milwaukee, said "I am of the opinion right now that I would vote for such a proposal, though further study might change my ideas."

Representative Michael K. Reilly, Fond du Lac, said he had not given the proposition sufficient consideration to comment.

Fair Weather Is Likely Tomorrow

Snow Is Probable in Southern Part of Wisconsin

Weather prognosticators will be watching the weather over the weekend to see whether March 1 enters like a lion or lamb. The saying is that if the month enters like a lamb it will go out like a lion and vice versa.

The weatherman indicated it is likely to come in like a lamb with his forecast of little change in temperature and mostly cloudy for Sunday. Snow is probable in the south portion of the state, he says.

At noon today the temperature was up to about 25 degrees. Maximum and minimum temperatures of 30 and 14 degrees were recorded in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The minimum reading was recorded at 7 o'clock this morning.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were: Miami 76, El Paso 68; Williston, 8 degrees below zero and Havre 6 below.

Among the more popular bottom markers are peded potatoes. Large pieces of white paper also are used.

Board Favors Meeting With PWA Regarding Cut in Land Grant

Sending a committee to Washington to confer with PWA authorities regarding the disallowance and reduction of certain items under the sewage disposal plant land and right-of-way account was recommended "by the board of public works at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall."

PWA recently disallowed $15,795 of the $31,050 for the site in the application for the government grant, leaving $15,255 eligible. A brief on the matter was drawn and sent to state PWA officials but no change was allowed. The council planned to transfer the disallowed amount to the construction fund in order to receive the full amount of the grant requested.

Construction of a garage at the sewage plant and purchase of additional chemical feed equipment was favored by the committee. Greeley and Hansen, consulting engineers on the job will request a time extension for completion of the project until July 1.

The board also recommended a reduction in gravel assessment from 75 to 45 cents.

Crosby and Evans In Musical Film

'Pennies From Heaven' Will be Shown at Elite Theater

There's happiness ahead at the Elite Theatre, where Bing Crosby's latest picture, Columbia's "Pennies from Heaven," is due on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days. A cast that includes Madge Evans, Edith Fellows, Donald Meek and Louis Armstrong, famed king of swing, works along with Bing in the film.

Crosby's latest picture was "Rhythm on the Range," in which he scored a hit. Madge Evans was last seen in "Piccadilly Jim," and little Edith Fellows, thirteen-year-old starlet, will be remembered for her performance in "She Married Her Boss" and "And So They Were Married" and other films. Armstrong's celebrated swing band appears with him in "Pennies from Heaven."

The story concerns Larry Poole, an ex-convict vagabond troubadour. He is asked by a condemned murderer in prison to look up the family of the murdered man. Larry finds a little girl and her grandfather, poverty-stricken. Then begins the highly entertaining tale of how Larry contrives to keep the child and the elderly man out of county institutions while falling in love with a welfare worker whose duty is to put them there.

'On the Avenue' Is Gay And Tuneful Musical

Swinging merrily along to the tune of the best songs ever written by the greatest writer of songs in the world, "On the Avenue," opening soon at the Rio Theatre, represents Irving Berlin at his melodious best, in a musical that is full of pep and lulling good spirits.

With Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll making a new and romantic twosome, the lively musical presents a real-life romance of New York in a show that's as big as the town. Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers and George Barbier add both melody and mirth to the production.

Madeleine Carroll, noted hitherto for straight dramatic roles, makes a charming sweetheart for Dick Powell. The beginning of "On the Avenue" finds her, as a wealthy debutante, entering a theatre with her father, George Barbier, and an explorer, Alan Mowbray, at the moment that Dick Powell, Alice Faye and the Ritz Brothers are engaged in a hilarious take-off on the home life of "the richest girl in the world."

Infuriated, Madeleine stalks from the theatre, threatens the manager with suit and brushes past a stage doorman to snatch Alice's wig from her and to break the window of Dick's dressing room before she is forcibly ejected.

Hollywood News And Gossip By Robbin Coon

Hollywood—Portrait of an actor earning his salary.

Spencer Tracy, looking like somebody else because his hair is curled for "Captain Courageous," is about to make an "added scene."

In the long shot taken at sea, the mast of the ship We're Here collapsed in a storm, carrying Tracy to fatal injury, according to the scenario, in the seething waves.

Today's scene, a close-up, is to match that. The setting is the studio "tank," but the camera on a crane focuses only on the square of placid water in which Tracy and the broken mast are resting. In a skiff to one side the microphone man swings his boom; in another skiff Director Victor Fleming and cameraman Hal Rosson crouch in preparation for the "storm." A couple of nurses in uniform wait on the deck of the battered facsimile of the We're Here.

Tracy, with a philosophical grin, slips down from the mast, gets himself unstuck in the floating mast ropes as ordered, and waits. At a signal the storm begins—and what a storm! Huge paddles churn up a frothy sea, clouds of spray fly up with a roar from a towering wooden reservoir, and a huge funnel batters Tracy's head with "wind." The waves rise higher, higher, engulfing him, knocking him about as he yells his dialogue. "Rescuers" are John Carradine—just up from the flu—Dave Thubert and Jack Stirling, all of whom get nearly as drenched as Tracy.

And they do the scene three times. Before the last take Tracy, submerged in his art if ever an actor was, catches me leering on the sidelines and yells: "You like to try it? If you've got to laugh, you might stay out of my line of vision!"

But another wave breaks over him before I can explain it wasn't laughter but an expression I always wear when wondering whether Metro is trying to drown Tracy.

Later, after he has changed in the heated tent nearby, I learn he's rather wondering about that himself. At least, he said he planned to go to bed for three weeks after his picture—if he were still alive after this picture.

Bette Davis will sing for the first time on any screen, in "Kid Galahad." Why didn't she sing before? No one ever asked her, and she never thought of suggesting it. . . . Writer Clemence Dane's real name is Winifred.

Everything's been done before, note: Vladimir Sokoloff, Russian actor, arrived to play in "Danton," now temporarily shelved. . . . But he was a newcomer and important, hence the studio sought information on his career. . . . Only to learn that in 1931 or thereabouts Sokoloff had his screen baptism on that same lot, playing in foreign versions. . . . As inconspicuously as, about the same time, Charles Boyer did the same. . . .

GARBO AND TAYLOR PLAY IN 'CAMILLE'

Robert Taylor and Greta Garbo play the leading roles with Lionel Barrymore in "Camille," which opens today at the Rio theatre on one of the greatest twin hit bills ever presented in a theatre.

The other outstanding hit is a riotous comedy drama, Jane Withers in "The Holy Terror."

The doors are open on Sunday at 12:30 p. m., with the first showing of "Camille" on that day scheduled to start at 12:45 sharp.

Earliest Spring Birds Will Arrive in Less Than Month

BY CLARA HUSSONG

In less than a month quite a number of our earliest spring birds will have returned and ever the most indifferent nature lover will be watching for his first robin, bluebird or meadowlark. During these first spring days everyone is more or less nature-minded, a fact which bird lovers who are anxious to organize bird or nature clubs in their communities should keep in mind.

Every community has its nature lovers but many of these outdoor-minded people are so quiet and unobtrusive in the pursuit of their hobbies that few of their acquaintances are aware of this quality in their natures. When it is discovered by another of similar tastes, this mutual interest is often the basis of a lifelong friendship.

Nature clubs, as well as other clubs, not only tend to draw together persons having similar ideas as to how to spend the leisure hours but they influence others outside their circles. These "others" are drawn into the circle and often those who joined half-heartedly become in time the most enthusiastic members.

Do Much Good

We have often been pointed out as a nation of "joiners" but we cannot ignore the great amount of good done by clubs and other organizations. For a number of years we have been hearing of the great need for the conservation of our plant and animal life. It is my belief that nature study, well taught in public schools and nature and conservation clubs for adults in every community will work all the wonders we expect the conservation commission to perform.

When we first moved to Green Bay, more than three years ago, I knew no one here who was as actively interested in Nature as I was. I took many walks to gather material for the newspaper articles I was just beginning to write. Invariably I went on these hikes alone. Two or three times a year my youngest sister visited me and during her stays she always accompanied me on my nature hikes.

She was, and still is, the ideal companion for a hike which requires the use of the eyes, ears and nose as well as the legs. She doesn't hesitate to snatch the field glasses from my hand and I don't hesitate to silence her with a sharp word or frown when I hear a new bird note.

Found Nature Lovers Here

Soon after my articles began appearing I began getting telephone calls from residents of this city asking for information on birds and flowers. Letters came to me from all over the state with more questions and also with much valuable information. I decided that there were nature lovers here and after the formation of my nature study class at night school, I began to meet some of them.

When the night school term drew to a close the members of the class expressed a desire to continue the meetings in the form of a club. The Press-Gazette published notices of the opening meeting which was to be held the last week in March. The result was an initial enrollment of 45 members. Since then about 30 more have joined the club.

We decided to hold one evening meeting and three field trips a month, at least through the spring and summer months. At the evening meetings we have been entertained and instructed through lectures, lantern slides and movies of wild life. Some of these slides

Early Trips Well Attended

The three field trips a month were quite well attended during the spring months but later the attendance fell off except when the trip promised some special enjoyment. Among the special trips the two Door county field seminars conducted by members of the Milwaukee Museum stand out in the minds of those attending them.

In discussing plans for this year with other members of our bird club I have come to the conclusion that one field trip a month is enough but it should be made an outstanding event. Local trips can be taken often by smaller groups headed by a leader but unless the trip promises something unusual

'Green Light' to Play at Appleton

'Find the Witness' Will be Second Feature of Double Bill

Occasionally a "Magnificent Obsession," a "Naughty Marietta," a "Green Light" comes along, and despite its unusual merit, some patrons, on occasional theatre goers are prevented by inclement weather, or other engagements from seeing them. It is to be regretted that such worthwhile productions cannot be seen by every movie goer, and in the particular instance of "The Green Light" which enjoyed a responsive engagement at the Rio Theatre last week, the management of the Appleton Theatre determined that those who were prevented from seeing the picture on its first engagement, would have one more opportunity of giving themselves this rich experience. "The Green Light" based on the novel by Lloyd C. Douglas (he also authored "Magnificent Obsession"), with a cast headed by Errol Flynn, Margaret Lindsey and Anita Louise will be shown on next week Tuesday and Wednesday at the Appleton Theatre, on a double feature program with "Find the Witness." In this latter feature, a mixture of comedy and mystery prevail, with Charles Quigley, a newcomer to the screen, and Rosalind Keith have predominant roles. How can a man buried alive commit murder? That is the exciting premise upon which "Find the Witness," is based, and we promise you a baffling hour.

County Safety Group To Meet at Kimberly

The Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety Council will meet at Kimberly, March 15, P. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner and chairman of the council, announced today. The April meeting will be held at Hortonville.

Vegetation, combined with terracing and other mechanical methods of erosion control, is said to reduce soil erosion to a minimum.

Your attendance is apt to be small. If you want both men and women in your club, Sunday is the best day for your outdoor activities but three Sundays a month is too much to expect of even the most enthusiastic members. By the way, this article is not meant to boost our local club but is written with the hope that it will stimulate other lone watchers of the trails to seek and give companionship while reading "Nature's infinite book of secrecy."

THEY'RE VICTIMS OF BLACK LEGION

Not since "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" has there been so powerful a screen indictment as "THE BLACK LEGION" produced daringly by the same studio, Warner Bros., and which will be shown at the Appleton Theatre on next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In the cast are Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan, Dick Foran and Erin O'Brien Moore. The second feature ranges from styles to mystery, with Gloria Stuart as "THE GIRL OVERBOARD," with Sidney Blackmer, Walter Pidgeon and Hubert Cavanaugh, supporting. Play Hollywood for added fun, on Friday night.

Preventing Colds Helps to Avoid Defects in Hearing

Madison—Take care of the common cold and prevent serious defects in hearing, is the statement made today by the State Medical Society in its weekly health bulletin.

The greatest single enemy of good hearing is infection in its various forms, but chiefly in the common cold. Infection of the nasal sinuses, resulting from the common cold, is among the basic causes of chronic progressive deafness. Every sinus attack is a menace to the hearing and should be controlled as soon as signs of inflammation appear. Further than that, precautionary measures should be taken in personal health to prevent colds from starting a "war in the sinus region." In spite of continued warnings on the part of the State Medical Society and family physicians, the guardians of the public's health, there are still many people who will disregard a slight congestion in the nose and spread their colds and infections to others. It is a well-known fact that danger to the hearing through colds lies in the possibility of spreading infection.

"You, personally, can be a soldier in this war against colds by getting proper rest, living in well-ventilated rooms, avoiding too heavy clothing in cold weather, and allowing plenty of time in eating meals. By following these four health habits you are helping to protect not only yourself from colds and defective hearing but also those with whom you come in contact in your daily routine."

However, the common cold is not the only source of defective hearing. Conditions which arise after illness, especially those childhood infectious diseases as measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, chickenpox, the mumps, and diphtheria threaten the hearing. The running ear is often a result of these illnesses, and may do a great deal of damage if not cared

'Lloyds of London' Will Show at Rio

Picture Tells One of Great- est Love Stories of All Time

Against the turbulent canvas of adventure and intrigue which forms the pulse-stirring background of "Lloyds of London," the picture which has startled two continents and which opens soon at the Rio Theatre, there stands out one of the great love stories of all time, when fierce courage and vengeful fury fought to the death for a love that flamed while the fate of an empire hung in the balance.

Packed with the thrill of forbidden kisses that changed the destiny of a whole empire, as the faithful lovers forgot everything but that they were man and woman in each other's arms, this screen triumph tells the story of human passion that were inextricably woven with the course of history.

When Freddie Bartholomew, as young Jonathan Blake, and Douglas Scott, as the youthful Horatio Nelson, discover a plot to scuttle a ship and collect the insurance from Lloyds, the boyhood friends determine to warn "Mr. Lloyd" of the plot. At the last moment, Horatio's uncle takes him off to sea, and Freddie sets out alone on the hundred-mile walk to London.

The young lad's courage so impresses Sir Guy Standing, head of the syndicate, that he rewards the boy by taking him into the business, where every year Jonathan grows in stature and reputation.

During the years that follow, Jonathan often hears the great bell of Lloyds toll its message to the ears of listening Britons—twice for good news, once for disaster. Thus rings out the news of the French Revolution, of the heroic struggle between England and France for supremacy of the seas, and of the swift rise of Napoleon.

Wallace Beery Plays Role as 'Old Hutch'

Millions of readers roared at "Old Hutch" when the story appeared in a national magazine. They and additional millions will laugh when they see Wallace Beery in the title

Hooded Hoodlums are Indicted by This Film

A powerful indictment of the hooded hoodlums, who take law into their own hands, burning homes, driving innocent citizens who may have displeased one of their members out of town, killing, ravishing, will be witnessed in "The Black Legion" which heads the strong double feature program at the Appleton Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In the cast are Humphrey Bogart, Erin O'Brien Moore, Dick Foran, Ann Sheridan and Dickie Jones. Bogart, who will be remembered for his role as the "killer" in "Petit Forest" excels in "The Black Legion" that remarkable performance. Miss O'Brien Moore gives a convincing performance as Bogart's wronged but loyal wife. Dick Foran and Ann Sheridan as the sweethearts who suffer at the hands of the Legion, and their mis-guided friend are more than adequate. Helen Flint is excellent as the siren who as a tool in the hands of the Legion, helps corrupt the members who would like to, but dare not, withdraw from the organization.

The second feature of this program which plays next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Appleton Theatre, will be "Girl Overboard" combining the swank of an exclusive dress shop, where Gloria Stuart, mannequin for Sidney Blackmer parades with the latest in Hollywood fashions, to an ocean liner, where escaping from his unwelcome attentions a mystery arises from his unfathomable murder.

Former King Edward of England held four different titles during epochal 1936: Prince of Wales, King Edward VIII, Prince Edward of Windsor and Duke of Windsor.

The "laziest man in the world" finds $100,000 in stolen bills—and he can't find a way to spend it!

Beware OF STRANGERS AND PEDDLERS AT YOUR DOOR WARNS CHIEF OF POLICE

To the Citizens and Housewives
of Appleton:

THIS IS A WARNING issued for the protection of Appleton homes and citizens from the HAZARDS of DEALING WITH ITINERANT PEDDLERS and STRANGERS.

OWING TO THE FACT that there have been many cases of High Pressure Selling Schemes reported to the Police recently by housewives and citizens the following is issued.

STRANGERS SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED to your homes UNTIL THEIR CREDENTIALS HAVE BEEN CHECKED UP AND VERIFIED — and that you ARE SURE YOU KNOW the party at your door to be a LOCAL APPLETON CITIZEN deserving your consideration.

ONE NEED NOT BE AFRAID of offending the HONEST SALESMAN, living here, or REPRESENTING A LOCAL BUSINESS FIRM. He will have his CREDENTIALS WITH HIM — that is why all are required to carry their identification SO AS TO PROTECT YOU.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE to Strangers on orders, as in many cases the customer has NEVER RECEIVED THE MERCHANDISE — not has there been any refund of the cash-in-advance payment.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS OR ISSUE A CHECK to a Stranger on an order, often times these checks have been "ALTERED" and later cashed by an innocent party.

IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS, PHONE THE POLICE AT ONCE. PHONE NO. 181. DON'T DELAY IN THIS — as it will enable our police to overtake anyone making false representations at your home.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY — Protect yourself — BE SURE you know who the Stranger is at your door before allowing him admittance to your home. ASK FOR IDENTIFICATIONS.

GEO. T. PRIM
Chief of Police,
Appleton, Wis.

Beware of this endless chain selling scheme

It is being worked with all kinds of merchandise—especially hosiery and underwear.

WHO WILL HOLD THE SACK?

The Latest in bargain appeals, as offered by these Hy-Jack Peddlers are the new Chain-Selling-Schemes by which merchandise is promised to coupon purchasers for a small cash consideration and a little work.

DO YOU WANT TO BECOME A PEDDLER

and prey upon your friends---if you do try this one--- here is a typical promise---made to you by the real slick peddler---

$10 WORTH OF HOSE FOR $1

Looks Good on the Face of it--What?

TRY and figure this---The Slick Peddler offers you a contract with three coupons for $4.00. Here is where you work your friends. You are to sell these coupons to three friends at $1.00 each and WHEN each of these friends send in $3.00 for similar coupon outfits or a total of $9.00 you are supposed to get $10.00 worth of some kind of hose. NOW you have made PEDDLERS out of three friends---and before they can realize anything for their cash they have that "little bit of work" to do---that is, "create more Peddlers among their friends"---so on---so on--- indefinitely.

IF you do complete this very simple contract---and your hose are delivered you are out $1.00 net, your three friends are out $4.00 each---or $12.00---and this firm has collected $13.00. WHO really pays for your hose? The firm or your friends?

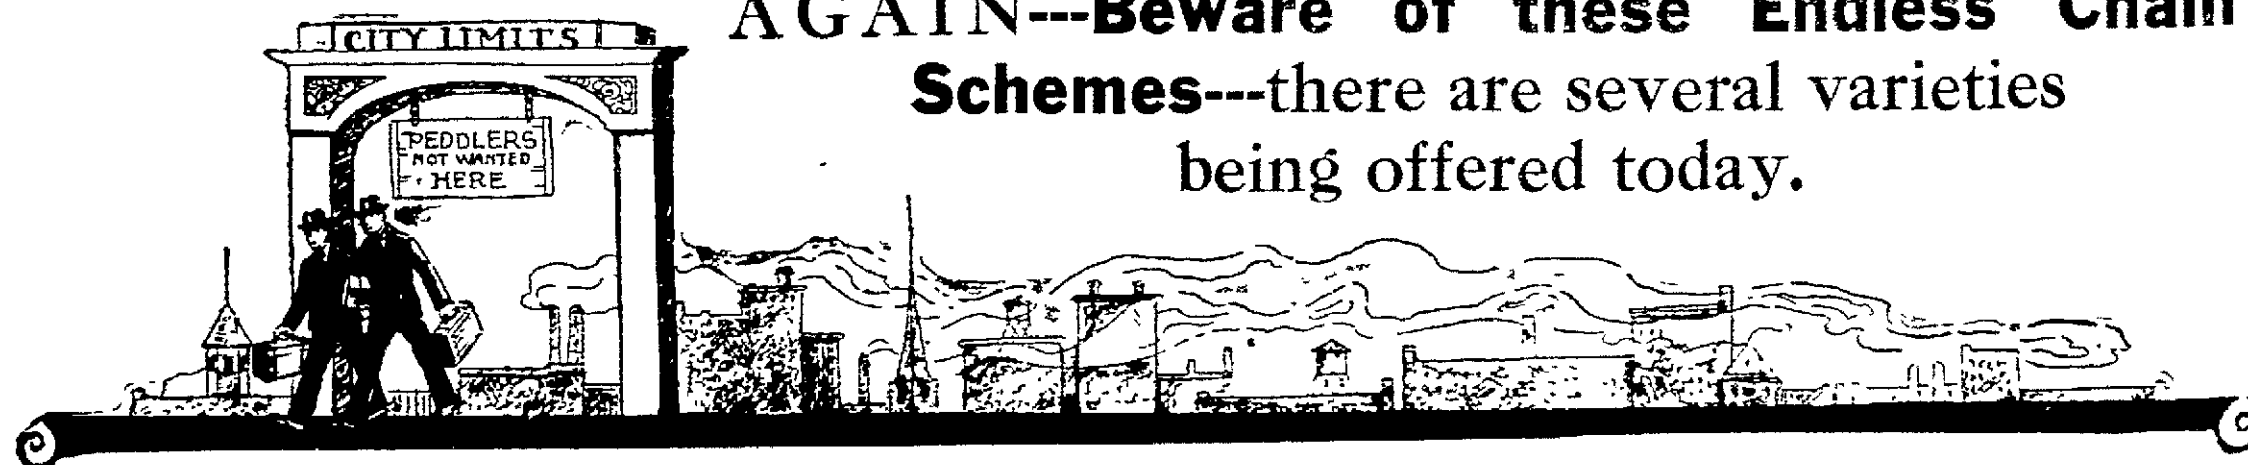

SUPPOSE the firm fails---after having paid for your $10.00 worth of hose out of the $13.00 collected? How could this firm refund the $12.00 invested by your friends? What about the running expenses of an office and salaries of this firm---

Who Would Hold The Sack?

IF the practice and policy of the Government in barring these Schemes from the mails is upheld by the courts, what might happen to the firm should it be denied the use of the mails? If the firm should quit voluntarily, What Then?

IT IS NOT BUSINESS SENSE to expect a firm of this kind to give each of its customers $10.00 worth of hose for $1.00. You can NOT take out of any business more than is put into it.

AGAIN---Beware of these Endless Chain Schemes---there are several varieties being offered today.

Miss Achtenhagen Tells Girls Of University Life in England

An entertaining account of Cambridge university in England, where she studied last summer, was presented by Miss Olga Achtenhagen, associate professor of English at Lawrence college, at the scholarship banquet given by Mortar board Friday night at Ormsby hall for women holding high scholastic honors in the four classes.

After giving a brief survey of the history of the town of Cambridge, Miss Achtenhagen went on to tell of the origin of its famous university. The first record of scholars goes back to 1209, she said, when a number of scholars migrated from Oxford to Cambridge, and from Paris to Cambridge. The body of students and teachers was organized much as were masters and apprentices of guilds. Originally students lived in hostels which were private enterprises. Then some colleges were endowed by bishops, noble ladies and others, and from then on all students of a given college have dined together, wherever they may have lived.

Explains Organization

Explaining the organization of the present Cambridge university, Miss Achtenhagen said that the chancellor is Stanley Baldwin, but that the vice chancellor is the acting head of the university. She told how students work toward a degree, how the Cambridge tutor differs from tutors in American colleges and outlined the system of degrees and examinations. She also mentioned the place of "undergraduates," who are students of Newham and Girton colleges in Cambridge university, and described the sports, especially the famous bumping races, and the festivities of May week held strange as it may seem, in June.

Miss Achtenhagen's experience at Cambridge was unique, for she had the unusual opportunity of living with 10 other women in King's college hostel, just across King's parade from King's college proper.

The oldest part of the hotel was used by mediaeval students. Although no woman, not even the mother of a student, had been allowed to dine in the hall at King's college, Miss Achtenhagen and the 10 others had the privilege of having all their meals there. There were 70 men there during the summer, and they never quite got accustomed to seeing the women there she said.

Personal Mails

Each of the women had a "bedder," university term for bedmaker, or personal maid who called her in the morning, brought early tea, took care of rooms, mended, laundered, ran errands and laid the tea. Representatives of almost every nation were studying at Cambridge during the summer, Miss Achtenhagen said. The lecturers from Cambridge, Oxford and Edinburgh were gowns, and she told of frequently seeing Dr. Coulton, the famous mediaeval history authority, striding about carrying his notes for a new book in a knapsack, his gown flapping in the breeze.

The summer lectures covered every phase of the Tudor period, as well as important events before and after the period, she explained. There were lectures on language, drama, literature, exploration, history, government, economics, religion, art and music, and separate lectures on Cranmer, Machiavelli, Marlowe, Sir Thomas More, Wolsey, Cromwell, Raleigh and Essex, Wyatt and Surrey, Bacon, Erasmus, Sidney and rulers of the period. The outstanding feature was a series of lectures by J. Dover-Wilson on Shakespeare.

Also Recreation

But there was recreation too, and Miss Achtenhagen told of excursions to Norwich, Ely and London of an evening of Tudor music by King's college choir, of a performance of "Hamlet" by the Marlowe society, and of visits to the various colleges with opportunities to meet undergraduates, fellows and dons of the colleges socially. Because Miss Achtenhagen and a friend had acquired, before reaching Cambridge, an unusual collection of rubbings of monumental brasses, they had the privilege of being entertained at lunch a number of times in the home of Baron Edleston, famous antiquarian, while he had as his house guest the Bishop of Hereford.

There were also garden parties, dances and punting and canoeing on the Granta, or Cam river, usually as far as Grantchester, where they had tea in the Orchard, near Rupert Brooke's vicarage.

List Members

The Lawrence college chapter, which was hostess at the banquet, consists of the Misses Jane Cornell, Jane Carr, Dorothy Mitchell, Margaret Mercer and Gladys McCoskrie.

The girls honored because they ranked highest in their respective classes at the college during the first semester of the current academic year were Jane Cornell, Mildred Gaenge, Belva Stratton, Irene Bosserman, Marjorie Blunck, Jane Carr, Dorothy Mitchell, Fern Munroe, Janet Riesberry, Bonnie Munroe, Marjorie Fulton, Evelyn Martine, Helen Peters, Annabelle Wolf, Betty Morrison, Janet Webster, Sally Johnson, Barbara Lester, Martha Lyon, Eleanor Stadtmueller, Mary White, Andrea Stephenson, Grace Strong, Helen Phillips and Marion Davis.

NUTRITIA MILK CONTEST!

Written by Miss Mary Kettenhofen

Why I Like Nutritia Milk

I like Nutritia Milk because it is not only rich in taste but in quality also. It is a much more satisfactory milk for baking as it makes the baked foods more delicious and much easier to digest. In cooking, it gives all the necessary factors needed to build a good, strong body and makes the meal much more delicious and appetizing. It is a much safer and a more satisfying milk in all respects. There is nothing what-so-ever, gone to waste as the amount of fat is evenly distributed throughout the entire bottle. It is also much safer for growing children as it is protected by pasteurization. Experience is the only proof. For breakfast foods, the rich cream is the best, as it makes the cereal, no matter what kind, taste much better. It is also very good for coffee as it makes the coffee an appetizing color. In a few words, Nutritia Milk is the best, easily digested milk on the market.

Need for International Cooperation in Education Is Pointed Out by Lecturer

INTERNATIONAL cooperation in education is needed in order to keep the good aspects of the new educational idea and drop the bad ones, in the opinion of Dr. Paul Dengler, director and founder of the Austrian-American Institute of Education, who addressed an audience last night in Peabody hall, Lawrence Conservatory of Music, on "Some Aspects of New Education in Europe Today."

Dr. Dengler compared the old type of liberal university with its freedom from state interference, its freedom of expression for both teacher and student, with the new type as found in such countries as Italy and Germany in which the university is an instrument of the state having a Fascistic philosophy. Under the old regime, in which the speaker said he grew up, the professor could say whatever he liked regardless of whether his ideas agreed with those of church or state, provided he kept away from too bitter criticism. Dr. Dengler stated, and the student likewise was at liberty to express his approval or dislike of what the professor said.

Different Kind

Now a different kind of university has come into being in Italy, Germany, Austria and other countries, he went on, where the university is an instrument in the hands of the state, for the interest of the state. The philosophy of Fascism as set forth by Giovanni Gentile, one-time minister of education in Italy, provides that there is no dualism in the world, no spiritual and material values but only spiritual; that the only reality is the community and that one should be willing to sacrifice everything to the community; that religion is the basis for this spiritual belief, but a sort of pantheistic religion; that youth should not be educated to an easy life of comfort but rather to something of high spiritual values.

Ideas Change

In Germany, the idea of a university is undergoing a complete transformation, according to Dr. Dengler, for the German mind demands a theoretical conviction which it follows through and which is behind all that is going on in Germany today "Blood and land" is the theoretical conviction of Germany, he said, explaining that the Germans believe that all people of the same blood or race should live together in one place.

Ernest Knecht, a leading educator in Germany, holds that the old university is nothing but a department store with no inner connection between the different subjects; therefore the student, bewildered, cannot form his philosophy from this type of university. His idea of modern education calls for an organic university held together by an idea which should include a study of humanistic philosophy. Dr. Dengler continued, a university more like it was in the Middle Ages with teachers and students working out their ideas together. This idea carries with it also the belief that the university should be a teaching institution, not for research, but that a teacher should occasionally do some research so as not to lose touch with that field, and one working on research should from time to time do some teaching.

Sororities Granted Use of Fraternity Houses for Rushing

Lawrence college sororities will no longer be dependent upon the hospitality of their local alumnae for afternoon rushing dates as the result of action taken this week by the Interfraternity council, permitting sororities to use fraternity houses for afternoon rushing functions.

The new system will be both more convenient and economical than the old. No sorority will rush more than once in the same house in one year, it was decided. The first rushing tea will be held in the home of the alumnae as in previous years, but the next three parties will be in the fraternity houses. The final preference banquet will be held in hotels or country clubs as usual.

A committee including the Misses Ruth Schuetz, Park Ridge, Ill.; Eudora Beadle, Wisconsin Rapids; and Betty Jane Winans, Glen Ellyn, Ill., is working on a draft of rushing rules for the autumn of 1937 which will be submitted later to be voted upon.

Vote to Call Midwest Conference on Cheese

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Adoption of the resolution by Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, (Prog.) of Waupaca county asking for a conference of midwestern government officials on the problem of importation of quality cheese into Wisconsin, with harmful effects on the market for Wisconsin whole milk cheese, was voted by the assembly Friday.

Handrich in a short speech declared that skim milk cheese makers in neighboring states are sending their product into Wisconsin, packaged to resemble Wisconsin cheese, to the detriment of domestic producers who manufacture their output with whole milk.

"We want to get together with state officials of other dairy states to see whether a method of identifying this foreign cheese can be worked out," said Handrich.

Low Contracts Lead To Defensive Battles

TOP ON THE BOARD
(Copyright 1937)

If match point duplicate play has any superiority over total point contests as represented by team of four play, or rubber bridge, it is the fierce defensive battles that must be waged over low contracts. In rubber bridge the natural tendency is to "let down" a trifle when the opponents are playing a contract of less than six. One spade or two clubs. These occasions are used as breathing spells by the average player in order to conserve his mental resources for the swing hands.

In match point play, since only about thirty hands are played during a session, there is neither need nor excuse for letting down a single second. Whether an opponent makes two or three clubs on a hand may make the difference between coming out a glorious first and an also ran second.

The hand shown below, played in a recent pair tournament, brought a top on the board to the team that defeated two spades.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 heart Pass 1 spade Double
2 hearts Double 2 spades Double
Pass Pass Pass Pass

North should not have bid two hearts over the take-out double. He should have been delighted to pass, since his hand was a near-minimum.

West opened his low club and East won with the ace. Now, instead of returning the opening lead blindly, East maneuvered for a diamond ruff. He saw that there was an excellent chance that West, his partner, held both the diamond ace and the spade ace. Therefore, on the lead of a diamond, West would win and return the suit. Then West could jump on the first trump lead and return a third diamond for East to ruff.

That is exactly how the play went, and in no other way would the contract have been defeated. Declarer saw what was coming but could not protect himself. It is true that he could have discarded his own third diamond on a heart in dummy, but this would not have saved him since West still would have led a third round of diamonds for East to ruff and declarer to overruff. This would have saved West's queen of clubs for him. Had East returned a club, declarer would have put up the king and discarded his losing club on dummy's heart, then would have led trumps. It then would be impossible for West to give East a diamond ruff and the defenders would have been held to three spade tricks, the ace of club and the ace of diamonds.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

WHEN PEOPLE UNKNOWINGLY ASK AWKWARD-TO-ANSWER QUESTIONS:

Dear Mrs. Post: If a girl has been friends with a man for several years and then their friendship is suddenly broken, and friends don't know and continue to ask about him, what can she answer so that they won't keep on asking questions? The situation becomes more awkward every day.

Answer: Perhaps it would be better to say frankly, "I'd rather not talk about John; you know I don't see him any more," and then turn the subject to something else. This direct answer is suggested merely because an evasive one is much more apt to encourage others to ask questions than when you say you don't want to talk about it.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the only woman employee in this small office and am having trouble, not with the job but with my employer's young daughter. She comes in here to see her father, which really means she comes to stay while her mother goes shopping. She is very upsetting and before long all the books are out of their proper places and the office supplies are mixed hopelessly. I have never thought of saying anything about this, but I think my latest experience warrants doing something. The other day she was left at the office when I was out to lunch and when I returned I found that she had gone through all my desk drawers, pulling personal things as well as others apart. May I appeal to some one, and who should it be, the mother or the father? The child won't listen to me.

Answer: Since all desk drawers have locks, it seems to me that you should have locked them before you went out. But if she really destroys stationery and mixes papers in the files, the obvious thing to do is to go to your employer and say that you don't think the child ought to be allowed alone in the office, and give him the reasons why.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been secretary to a young man for several years, and during that time naturally have talked to his wife frequently on the telephone when she calls to speak to her husband. I understand that they are expecting a first baby shortly and I'm wondering, in view of her pleasantness to me and his kindness, whether I might buy the baby something. Where shall I send it and to whom do I address it?

Answer: I would wait until the baby is several days old and then send whatever you would like to wherever the mother is. I am sure both she and her husband would appreciate your thoughtfulness very much.

My Neighbor Says—

For floors that were never polished the following method is good. The floors should first be washed thoroughly, and then when dry, coated with some floor oil, such as linseed oil. This should be at once rubbed with sawdust, which removes all surplus oil and polishes the floor. After this any wax may be used, according to directions, and then after a weighted brush is used the floor will be as smooth as new oaken ones.

A Little Saturday Talk

Yesterday we had part of a letter telling about the flood which swept over Johnstown, Pa., last year. It was written on March 23, 1936, by Wilbur Lee Coffman, one of my younger brothers, who takes pictures for a Pittsburgh newspaper. After telling how a boat he was riding in was overturned, he related:

"Then a friendly young fellow served as my guide and helper while I went about making pictures. He took me to a street car half way under water, and to automobiles which had been overturned and piled one on top of another, or which stood on end against buildings. Hundreds of automobiles had been washed around the streets.

"Half a dozen pianos had floated out of a music store. Just about everything else a person could buy in a store was floating down the streets as I waded in the dirty water. The water was now lower than it had been, but was deep enough to give trouble to anyone trying to go about.

"Time and again I was warned about open manholes, or open trap-doors in the sidewalks. The looking was not good because of broken plate glass, and other objects which might cause one to stumble.

"At a quarter past two in the afternoon, people began shouting that the Quernahoning dam had broken, and ran splashing through the streets, making for the hills. I knew that the bursting of a dam had caused terrible loss of life back in 1889, and I wanted to run, but simply could not do so. I was worn out from wading.

"An automobile with horn shrieking came down the street. As it slowed for a curve, I jumped on the bumper, but could find nothing to grasp with my hands. So I got off. Another car came along. It had a turtle back on which I was able to lie. Then I reached for a door hinge with my right hand.

"When we reached the hill, I climbed the steep, muddy slope. Through men, women and children I climbed. High up on the hill, it was cold. By and by all of us found that the alarm had been false! The dam had not broken."

So there was a much better ending to the story than there might have been. Johnstown suffered from the flood last year, like other cities in the path of the raging waters, but the dam held firm. If a dam is built solidly, and is high enough, it can be of great help in saving people from flood danger.

Parents Should Try to Make it Easy to be Good

BY ANGELO PATRI

We who have to do with children ought to try to make goodness—that is, compliance with rules and regulations of all sorts—easy as possible. There is nonsense in making it any harder. If being good were easy we never would have had to have the Ten Commandments. Life makes enough difficulty as it moves along its destined way, and as long as we are on the side of righteousness we ought to help its cause along.

We are strict about truth-telling. Are we careful to make it as easy as possible or do we make it very hard by adding fear to the burden of a troubled conscience? Our own fear of falsehood makes us appear stern and hard and threatening to the erring child. We help falsehood by our wrong attitude. We make telling truth hard for a faltering child.

We are very decided about the sin of stealing, making even the lowly pin a point of departure. Are we careful to teach respect for property of others by beginning with our own respect for the property of the children or do we blithely ignore their ownership and help ourselves to their things without as much as a look in their direction? Are we careful with money, with all the little odds and ends that children like, showing our care by keeping track of them and by keeping them always where they belong? Or do we leave things about carelessly, behaving as though they did not really matter much anyway? Carelessness breeds carelessness. Our standards become the children's standards. Make honesty easier by setting the stage for it, and for the prevention of dishonesty.

Then there are the little habits that we stress so much. "Keep your hands clean. When they are dirty you are likely to carry the dirt to your nose and mouth and infect yourself. Wash your hands." That is good talk, but how easy is it for a child to keep his hands clean, say in school? Can he find a washbasin and warm water and soap and a paper towels will tempt children

Many Things Can Cause Gray Hair

BY ELSIE PIERCE

On Prematurely Gray Hair
Mrs. S. T. writes: "What causes hair to turn gray prematurely? Neither my mother nor dad have gray or graying hair, yet my hair is beginning to gray at the age of twenty-seven. Sections along the temples and behind the ears are already gray, here and there a hair is gray in the center, at the roots and ends it is still its natural color. Is there any way of preventing it from turning gray any further?"

Answer: I wish I could tell you precisely what is causing your hair to gray, but no one, so far as I know, has as yet discovered the exact cause of premature graying. In your case it probably is not hereditary. On the other hand, worry, illness, sudden shock, poor circulation may be contributory causes. I don't know any way of preventing further graying, either. The best thing to do is to give the hair proper hygienic care, brush it carefully, night and morning to keep circulation stimulated, have it shampooed with very mild, castile soap and dried by hand instead of under an artificial dryer. Authorities generally feel that such care may retard the graying process. You may have the gray touched up by dyeing or by shampoo tints, unless you wish to let it grow gray naturally.

On Superfluous Hair
Mrs. R. C. writes: "I want to know whether removal of superfluous hair from the chin with an electric razor will cause the hair to grow in thicker and if so is there anything that I will remove hair permanently and safely. The electric razor is not different in its actual effect than hand razor. This cuts the hair at the root. The hair may not grow in any heavier but each hair may seem coarser, stiff instead of silky and therefore all the more noticeable. If you have only a few hairs on the chin and these are not stiff, I would advise you to bleach them. Otherwise, the only safe, permanent method of removing superfluous hair from the face, to my knowledge, is electrolysis. I have a bulletin on the subject of 'Superfluous Hair' which gives specific directions for bleaching, etc. I am sure it will interest you. Please send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it."

Changing Shape of Face
Nellie: You say you have high cheek bones. Can anything be done about them? The bone structure of the face cannot be changed, but make-up can be cleverly used below the cheek bones to make them look less conspicuous.

My complete new booklet "Reduce by Diet" (Booklet 201) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to The Book Library, Co., this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

Considerably less gas is used if the copper coils in the gas burner are kept clean. Remove the dust that accumulates with a stiff brush once or twice a month.

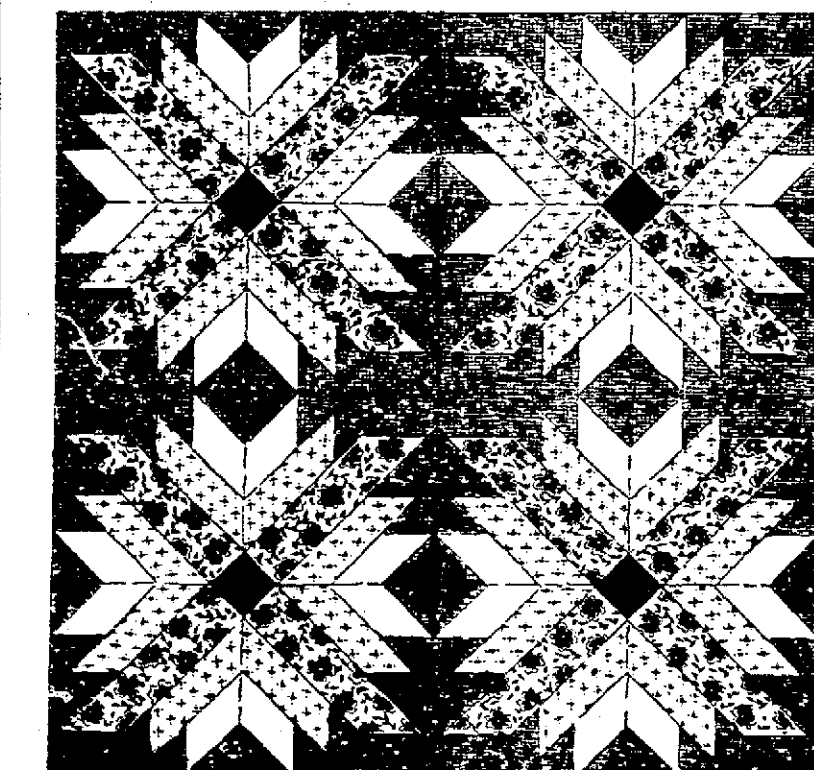

to be clean. It will keep the dirt and mess that good housekeepers deplete out with the main bathroom. And the children, as soon as they are old enough, can take turns in keeping it clean week by week.

We can help our aims forward by providing and preparing for them. Prevention is a far better method than cure and much easier. We are busy and give no thought to such things until the children get into trouble. Then we scold and fume and fret and ask why they did such a thing, or didn't do the other thing. The solution is clear. Make goodness easier and we will have more of it. Put the emphasis upon prevention and we will have less to cure.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

A Drowning Man

As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so does the average man afflicted with any form of disease seek relief in the most cleverly advertised medium. He believes misleading statements and unbusinesslike propositions offered in the promises of quick cures, buys experience at the expense of his nerve force and vitality and awaits the realization of the fact that relief and cure are obtained only through the services of a reputable physician.

When contemplating treatment one should consider the factors of skill, experience and reliability which can best be obtained by consulting the physicians whose reputation among the people of the vicinity for skillful conscientious treatment, entitles him to the respect and confidence of all in need of medical treatment.

Dr. Charles A. Hoag of Chicago, who has visited our city once every month for years, is qualified in every way to fill these requirements by reason of the success which has attended his wide experience. The assertion that there is no doubt of his ability to restore to health those afflicted is based on the fact that he has successfully treated and cured so many of our friends.

Dr. Hoag may be consulted free of charge and will again visit Appleton, Thursday, Mar. 4, 1937. He will be at the Conway hotel. Office hours 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. Adv.

Every man who goes hunting, camping or fishing boasts of his culinary triumphs and throws his flapjacks and fried eggs in his wife's face and wonders why she never learns to make coffee the way he makes it. So do the men who are their own cooks and bottle washers on boats. So where does the difference come in that makes

If a man makes the money that supports his family and if his wife is a strong and able-bodied woman, then he should not be called upon to do any of the housework. He should not be expected to make the bacon and fry it, too. But if the wife is delicate and frail, then it is certainly the husband's duty to help her with the housework. And

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS. Count Vronski, who is blackmailing Anne Phelps with a packet of love letters, is shot to death in her studio apartment. Only Anne Bigelow, the young American from Paris, and Karanokoff, the stunning dancer are there. They hide the body in a cupboard, as a party is imminent. Later Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, remove the corpse to Vronski's apartment. Next day Bigelow and Anne, lunching at the Colony, hear the news they expect. Bigelow returns to the studio, gets the gun and a bloody towel, goes to see Austrelitz.

Chapter 16

THE TOWEL AND THE GUN

"YOU'VE BEEN reading the papers, I see," said Bigelow, carefully laying down his package. "I haven't had time to look at them. What do they say?"

"The valet found him this morning and notified the police," answered the doctor. "The police think he surprised burglars looting the place and that they got him. According to the valet--a Frenchman who had been in his service for five years--Vronski kept a valuable collection of jewels on the premises and they are now missing."

"That sounds very satisfactory," murmured Bigelow.

"Very," agreed the doctor, dryly. Felbo brought in the extra cup and saucer and went his way, leaving his master to pour the coffee.

"What have you brought in the package?" he asked curiously.

"The towel and the gun. I thought you might be able to advise me how to dispose of them."

Austrelitz reflected. "The towel can go into the soiled linen basket in my surgery. No one will remark if it should be discovered there. And if I haven't already got other towels like it I'll get some to day... You'd better hire a car and drive out the Hudson somewhere to get rid of the gun. There are a number of spots where you can get quite close to the river and in weather like this you ought to have no difficulty in finding a deserted stretch. Give it a good saw cut."

"I will," promised Bigelow.

"Have you seen Anne today?" asked the doctor, leaning back and lighting a cigar.

"Yes. We lunched together."

"How is she?"

"Eating up you know. Natural. She's carrying a load of anxiety and worry."

Bigelow avoided discussion. Bigelow drank his coffee frowning to himself. Austrelitz watched him although seemingly intent upon his cigar.

"Did you discuss the situation with her?" asked Austrelitz at length.

"Yes--to some extent."

"Did you discuss the actual shooting?"

"No," answered Bigelow rather shortly. He got up and crossed to the window, where he stood with his back to the doctor, looking out.

"Have you discussed it with Karanokoff?" persisted the doctor.

"No," admitted Bigelow without turning round.

"And I take it you don't want to discuss it--even with me?" Austrelitz stung the end of his cigar thoughtfully.

"No," answered Bigelow. "What's the use? Nothing to be gained by it."

Austrelitz said nothing. He saw a good deal to be gained by such a discussion but he did not argue the point. He preferred to wait until Bigelow arrived at the same conclusion. He felt that Bigelow eventually would.

When he had finally got back to bed again the night before, Austrelitz had tossed for a long time in the darkness of his room, thinking over the situation that had arisen at Anne's studio. He had recalled the story that Bigelow had told him--noting all the careful reservations--and had visualized the three of them as they had faced him then--Bigelow, frowning, alert, grim, anxious--Karanokoff, self-assured and very still--Anne, white and weary and resigned. And he felt that if one of these three had fired the fatal shot, he knew which was guilty. But his lips were sealed unless Bigelow wished him to speak.

He glanced at the figure immobile by the window and sighed. Then he rose and opened the package that Bigelow had brought, examining the bath towel critically.

"No laundry mark," he announced with satisfaction.

Bigelow swung around from the window to meet the doctor's eyes rather wistfully. The doctor gave him the gun and laid a sympathetic hand on his arm.

"Don't hesitate to let me know at once if there is any further development," he said.

"Thanks," said Bigelow. "You can depend upon that."

He set off again, this time with the automatic hidden in his pocket. Austrelitz looked after him thoughtfully, shaking his head.

Conversation from the Tub

Bigelow had intended stopping in for a moment to see Anne on his way back from Westchester, but the journey took longer than he had anticipated and he was afraid that she would have started for her dinner party before he could reach the house, so he stopped on the road to telephone.

Is it you? asked Anne, speaking after an interminable delay. Sorry to keep you waiting, but the maid had to bring the phone in here to me. I'm in the tub."

Really? he asked, laughing.

"Yes. The phone plugs in. Tell me, did you attend to all your little chores?"

She meant getting the studio cleaned up and disposing of the towel and the gun, of course.

Yes, said he. Every single one.

He heard her sigh. "I've been waiting for you to get home," she said. "I've been waiting for you to get home."

"That's why I'm lying here so long--trying to get up courage. I'll have to be so damned bright and gay. So many people will be here. I wish you were going, too. Will you call me up first thing tomorrow morning?"

"Yes," promised Bigelow.

"If you don't, I'll tell you."

"All right. That's a deal. Good-bye."

"Goodbye," said Anne.

He sensed that she had tried to sound flippant and cheerful in order to escape the subject.

Greenwoods	1	3	250
Goldin Metals	1	4	200
Pantry Lunch	0	4	000

Kaukauna—The Kavanaugh Barbers added their fourth victory to their last-half record in the industrial league by whipping the Goldin Metals last night 28-19. The Kavanaugh led at half-time 18-3 and dominated the throughout the game.

Vils, Kaukauna guard, was high point man of the tilt, tossing in four field goals and ones free throw for nine points. McFadden got four baskets for the winners while Goldin and Posson, guards, each gathered five points to head the Goldin Metals' scoring. The game left the Kavanaugh's still at the top of league standings along with Gustmans Chevrolet's and puched the Goldin Metals to second from the bottom with one victory and four losses.

At the bottom of the list is the Pantry Lunch five and they are more firmly entrenched there than ever after taking a 35-19 walloping in the preliminary game the Appleton Catholic Knights last night. Again it was last-half weakness which had much to do with Pantry Lunch's decisive defeat. The team was only four points behind at intermission time, 14-10, but couldn't hold to the same pace thereafter.

Ludtke Leads
Ludtke with five baskets and Lang with four and a free throw paced the Knights. Farwell with two field goals and two free throws and Mayer with a bucket and four free tosses tied with six points apiece in the Pantry Lunch column in the preliminary game the Appleton Triangles, a junior Y. M. C. A. team, beat the high school "C" squad 21-18 but needed two overtime periods to do it. Sheer with three baskets led the "C" cagers.

Sportsmen Plan To Organize Club At New London

Meeting Will be Held Monday Evening at City Hall

New London—Formation of a Sportsmen's club for hunters, fishermen and conservation minded persons in this area will be undertaken at a meeting at the city hall Monday evening, March 1, at 8 o'clock it was announced this week by a group of New London men who have taken the initiative in the matter.

George S. Hadland, conservation warden of Waupaca county, will be presented at the meeting and will bring with him an authoritative speaker on fish and game protection and restoration.

Reason For Move
One of the prime reasons for the present action was the closing of the Wolf river to pike fishing from March 1 to April 20 this year by the state conservation commission. Warden Hadland has confirmed opinions of local fishermen that the fish run will be over by that time and the season's best fishing will be lost. First action of the sportsmen club will be to appoint a committee to explain local conditions to the state commission in an effort to secure some part of the fishing season.

Hook and line fishermen are most desirably formation of the club now for that purpose. It is believed that such fishing does not interfere with fish conservation in the Wolf river. Illegal practices are blamed for the decreasing supply.

Some of the New London men forming the nucleus of the action for formation of a club are L. J. Polaski, Rudy Ploetz, Ray Queeman and Frank Schumacher. It is planned also to care for birds and other game during the winter months and inaugurate a general conservation program.

Start File of Clippings Pertaining to Music

The jumbled title contest has proven popular with the children at the library with 42 taking part in their department. The contest was inaugurated in the junior department recently and 16 pupils have joined. Prizes will be awarded at the end of the contests.

TUESDAY'S GAME
Neenah at Appleton.

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
OSHKOSH—Appleton High school basketball team looked like anything but a conference championship contender here last night against Oshkosh High school and as a result went home on the short end of a 25 to 19 score. The defeat was the third in conference play for the Terrors and it hunted them into third place in the standings.

Appleton still is in the conference race, however, thanks to Green Bay East when turned back Sheboygan by a 35 to 32 score in an overtime. The standings now show Oshkosh at the top of the heap again with seven wins and two losses and Sheboygan second with six wins and two losses and Appleton third.

Looking into the future, the schedule appears to slightly favor Appleton's chances of being at least tied for the top if Shields can bring his proteges out of the doldrums. Next week Appleton plays Green Bay West here while Oshkosh goes to Manitowoc where the Ships haven't lost a home game while Sheboygan should have easy sailing with Fond du Lac.

On March 9 Appleton closes its season with Sheboygan here in a game that will settle the fate of one team. Oshkosh and Fond du Lac clash on March 12 and Sheboygan takes that fatal trip to Manitowoc while Appleton will be through. Then on March 19 Sheboygan and Oshkosh battle in a death struggle at Oshkosh.

Terrors Look Bad
Appleton probably turned in its worst exhibition this season last night. The smooth attack of former games was completely gone and the very irritating habit of standing around while Oshkosh followed up shots and generally took the Appleton rebounds, hurt considerably. If the Indians didn't make good on their repeated efforts at shots they got possession of the ball anyway and that served to keep Appleton from getting dangerous.

Seven boys got their names in the Appleton lineup but the only one which counted was Ken Slattery. The big guard and forward scored 13 of Appleton's points and 9 of the markers were on free throws. His two baskets were long losses of the first water. Aside from that Appleton scored only one field goal, a pivot shot by Meyers. The remaining points were gift shots and in only two instances was the Appleton man fouled while shooting, which shows how few times the squad worked the ball in near the hoop.

Batterman Tops Indians
Virgil Batterman, Oshkosh center, showed the Terrors what an all-conference pivot man looks like with four field goals and four free throws for his team. Two of his baskets were follow up shots and on a third occasion he pivoted around Meyers to score easily. Dick Erditz contributed two baskets, one a long one and one on which he drove past an Appleton player for a close-in heave. The other Oshkosh baskets were two long tosses by Salenka and a follow by Sloboski.

The game opened with Schade at center, Bailey at guard and Slattery at forward for Appleton. Meyers replaced Schade and McKee, went into the game at the half but neither improved the Terror of defense.

Slattery counted two free throws to open the evening's scoring but Batterman evened matters with a followup shot Batterman then took a pass on a fast break and scored and Slattery got another free throw and the quarter ended 4 to 3 for Oshkosh.

Free throws advanced the score to 6-3 and Sloboski's basket made the count 8 to 6 for Oshkosh. Slattery let go a long toss to make it 8-3 but free throws again put Oshkosh ahead with Slattery getting another long goal to make the count 10-3 at the half.

Lead 19 to 11
Erditz sounded the death knell for Appleton's hopes as the third quarter opened with a long goal. Batterman got a free throw and Erditz a one-handed toss when he drove in past Meyers. The score then was 15 to 10 for Oshkosh. Meyers got back three of the points on a field goal and free throw but Batterman's follow up shot and Salenka's long toss gave the Indians a 19 to 13 advantage at the third quarter.

Batterman's goal gave Oshkosh a 21 to 13 lead in the opening minutes of the fourth period and Salenka got another goal to which the Indians added two free throws. Appleton got six points in the last period, all free throws, and four accredited to Slattery.

Green Bay East in Victory Over Chairs

Green Bay—Coach Tom Hearden's Green Bay East High Red Devils joined Sheboygan's title hopes by scoring a 35 to 32 victory over the Chairs in an overtime Fox River conference basketball game here. The lead changed hands five times and the score was tied four times in the last half.

Harry Simons, who sparkled on defense as well as offense, talked a field goal and a free throw in the extra period to give the Red Devils a well earned victory. Schmidt was high point man in the fracas with 15 points, while Gerstner and Simons each made nine to pace the visitors.

Fond du Lac—Manitowoc High cagers, invading Fond du Lac, defeated the Cardinals, 22 to 11. Scoring early in the game, the Shipmen led at the half, 11 to 4. John Manitowoc guard, netted five field goals.

MENASHA—After battling to a 14-14 tie at half time the Menasha Bluejays smashed the hoop for 10 points in a fast and furious third quarter and emerged victorious 32 and 24, over the Neenah Rockets in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference game battle here last night.

A capacity crowd saw the two teams wage a fast, hard-driving battle and when the clock moved around to the last minute of play, Rockets and Bluejays all knew they had been in a real basketball game. Bert Remmel played a stellar game at forward and lead. "Coon" Rabdow bottled throughout the contest, holding the shifty Neenah guard to one bucket and two gift shots. However, both boys overplayed their hands and had to leave the tussle on personals.

Dan Schmidt Rocket forward, played outstanding ball for the visitors scoring five field goals on every type of shot in the book and 10 points.

Changes Lineup
Coach Paul Little omitted Van-evenhoven from the starting lineup, placing Peterson at center and Boetz at forward in his hunt for more height. The new combination made a promising start by setting up an 8-4 lead halfway through the first quarter, but then their fortunes toppled.

Shawano called time out, pulled together, and then opened its attack. Robbins, Shawano center, slung in a one-hand shot and Reed, followed with two more. He dribbled the length of the floor for one to put the Indians out in front 10-8 as the quarter closed. The two men kept going in the second quarter and ran their team's score up to 19 while the Kaws added only one point, a free throw by Koehn, to give them 11.

Carroll Wins Over Concordia, 36 to 27

Waukesha—Carroll college won its twentieth straight basketball game last night by trimming Concordia college of Milwaukee, 36 to 27.

The victory avenged a 35-29 defeat Concordia handed Carroll in the season's opener.

Trailing 18 to 17 at the half, Concordia twice gained a one point advantage in the second period. Shooting of Knoblauch and Pauley, forward and center, who tied at eight baskets each, in the closing minutes cinched the game for Carroll.

adding a charity toss for 11 of his team's points. Eric Fahnenkrug, Menasha center, battled his heart out and bucketed three distance shots plus six free throws to pace his mates.

Parts of the game resembled the fourth quarter of a wild football game and Menasha's scoring edge came from 14 fouls called on the visitors. Out of 17 tries at the bucket, the Caldermen registered 12 while the Rockets counted on 4 out of 8 tries. Each club had 10 field goals.

Brzycki dropped a long shot on the opening tipoff to start the scoring for the Menashans and Schultz evened the score a few seconds later with a tally from under the bucket. Neenah went into a lead when Dan Schmidt dumped in the first of five goals and a minute later increased the lead with a free throw on Godhardt's miscue. Fahnenkrug swished a gift toss and Osiewalski tied the count with a difficult angle shot. A bucket and a free throw by Rabideau gave the Rockets a 3-point lead and Remmel picked up two points on a basket from the circle. Free throws by Remmel and Godhardt gave the Caldermen's one-point edge at the first quarter.

Hesselman dribbled in for his first basket as the second quarter opened and Fahnenkrug tied the score with a free throw. Dan Schmidt swished his second bucket to shove his team into the lead and Remmel tallied on a free throw. Schmidt again increased the edge with a short shot from the side and Fahnenkrug retaliated with a short shot Brzycki evened the count at the half with a charity toss.

Jays Take Charge In the third stanza, the Bluejays took complete charge of the play, scoring 10 points to one basket for the invaders. The Caldermen really got hot and connected with shot after shot as the Rocket cagers raced around in a haze. Hesselman opened the scoring in the quarter with a jump shot. Fahnenkrug followed with a free throw and then two baskets in succession. Osiewalski scored a field goal and a charity toss and Remmel dropped a left hook to bring the count to 23 for the Bluejays. Free throws by Remmel and Fahnenkrug completed the scoring for the quarter which ended 24 and 16 for the Menashans.

The last quarter was just a matter of stalling and breaking at the right time when the Red defense had been lured out of its territory. Both teams counted eight points in the quarter. Fahnenkrug led off with a bucket after his mates had cleared the way by stalling. Rabideau counted on a free throw and Dan Schmidt swished two quick ones for four points from under the basket. Osiewalski retaliated with a sleeper and a short shot after the Rockets had been pulled out of position. Hesselman tallied on Godhardt's personal and Fahnenkrug dropped two free tries as Rabideau left the fray. Haertl sneaked in for a short shot as the game ended.

Johnny Haindl, K. O. Brown are Slated for Finale

THE CARD

Windyup
K. O. Brown, Ironwood, Mich. versus Johnny Haindl, Cooke, Mich. at 147 pounds.
Roy Roykdal, Ashland versus Frank Fudula, Negaunee, Mich. at 158 pounds.

Preliminaries
Al Faler, Ironwood, Mich. versus Lawrence Bourguignon, Green Bay, at 112 pounds.
Bud Mikelson, Ironwood, Mich. versus Leo Bedard, Nahma, Mich. at 148 pounds.
Al Cook, Neopit, versus Don Loonsfoot, Green Bay, at 118 pounds.
Wayne Fosberg, Fenary, Mich. versus Al Gramache, Hurley, at 135 pounds.
Clay Hogan, Oshkosh, versus Ed Wallace, Green Bay at 130 pounds.

ANSWERING the demand for boxers who haven't appeared here so often, Oney Johnston Post of the American Legion is importing a team of northern Michigan performers for the March 4 program at Armory G. It has been announced by Leslie Holzer, the Legion inactmaker. Four of the boxers will be from the stable of Paul Jay Miller, Negaunee, Mich., who also runs shows in the Iron county.

The bout of the evening will bring together K. O. Brown of Ironwood, Mich., who fought in the Wisconsin Rapids golden gloves tournament and who came away winner, and Johnny Haindl, Ironwood, Mich. Brown is a crowd pleaser who likes to mix and in Haindl he'll find a lad who isn't, butaverse to doing the same kind of mixing. Haindl lost his first golden gloves bout at Green Bay several weeks ago because he met Sever Canadeo. Canadeo won by a shade for Haindl hit him oftener than anyone who ever opposed the collegian in a local ring.

Roy Roykdal, Ashland was scheduled to meet Jack Fox of Negaunee, Mich. in another windyup but the latter turned out to be a bust in a northern Michigan show and has been replaced by Frank Fudula, Negaunee, who is a pretty clever lad.

A Green Bay golden gloves bout that, despite the fact it was a novice division, go, pleased the fans immensely and was evenly fought, will be repeated here when Clay Hogan, Oshkosh meets Ed Wallace, Green Bay, in the curtain raiser. Hogan is a pretty handy lad for a novice and fights a lot like Phil Dobbins. He beat Wallace, a rugged youngster, by a narrow margin at the Bay. The decision was just so close that some of the folks disagreed loudly and continued to yell for a long time.

Matchmaker, Holzer, is certain that, despite the fact few of the boys on the card have appeared here before, the card will be a good one and will be remembered a long time. He has seen almost every boy fight at some time or other and for those with whom he's unfamiliar, he has the word of Matchmaker Miller at Negaunee.

Tickets for the card are on sale at the usual places.

New London Tosses Free Throws to Beat Trunkers

BY ALVIN BRAULT
NEW LONDON—Boy: The New London High school basketball five just managed to save Coach Herbert Stacy and his school from the disgrace of a loss to Clintonville when it won a conference game, 35 to 33, in a free throw contest after two wild overtime periods on the Trunkers floor at Clintonville last night.

It was an exciting see-saw battle in which Clintonville led the Red and White 17 to 11 at the half and 25 to 21 at the end of the third period. It ended 27-21 then 29-21 and when the score remained knotted at 31-31 after two 3-minute overtime periods the squads took turns at the hoop from the free throw line.

In breathless suspense the crowd watched as Stern missed the first attempt for New London and then Yost and Denning succeeded. Then Knitt and Gerlinger tied the score for Clintonville and Thies missed his try. When Schauder and Martin did likewise for the Trunkers, Smith clinched the game for the Stacymen on his attempt. The clock swished another just for luck to set the final count at 35-33.

The last 14 minutes of play, including the last quarter and the two overtimes, were nerve-racking moments for fans on both sides. Clintonville's first win in several years seemed in the offing and New London's dwindling prestige hung in the balance. The excitement and noise was so intense at the end of the last overtime period that the game continued for a full minute before the umpkeepers could make the fact known, and then only after eight fans ran onto the floor with the signal.

Yost Ties Score
Starting at the fourth quarter with New London trailing 25 to 21, Yost dipped a free throw to even it up and Gerlinger tossed in a bucket for the Trunkers. For the next three minutes a fight for the ball ensued and with half a minute left Yost took a short pass from Denning and tipped it in to tie the game at 27-27.

In the overtime both Thies and Knitt rattled the ball ominously around the hoop but lady luck was against them and the ball rolled out each time. Denning finally managed to get through to the hoop but when he tried the second time with only 15 seconds left the Trunkers took the ball away from him and Martin tied the count from the middle of the floor.

The Stacymen rattled a few in the second overtime until Stern connected with a good one. In the last five seconds Denning fouled Martin and he promptly sank both gift shots to leave Coaches Stacy and Charlesworth of New London pulling their hair.

Ned Denning, New London's dependable guard and inspiration to the team, saw no action until the first of the third quarter with the score 17 to 11 against New London. The score was knotted four minutes after he entered the fray. He scored two buckets. Nader, equally necessary at the forward berth, left the game on personals as soon as the slack had been taken up in the score. Meinhardt showed at guard and Smith at forward.

Martin Gets 10 Points
Bob Martin, cool and calculating Trunker guard, accounted for three baskets and four free throws to match high game honors with Yost. New London center who ooted four buckets and two free throws. Martin proved a dead shot on long heaves.

Yost's scoring inates makes better luck than he had for many of his attempts at the hoop were failures. He counted all four buckets on tips from under the net. His defensive work was fine.

The comparatively small gym may have had something to do with it, too, but the Clintonville boys took the whole game cool and easy and had the Stacymen rattled and off balance in he first half. Yost's tips under the basket and his team's control of the tip-off balanced the poor showing. New London led 6 to 4 at the end of the first quarter.

The New London reserve quint trimmed the Clintonville B's 17 to 16 in a preliminary game. The entire champion freshman team took the reins near the end of the last quarter but the game ended without further scoring. People's last quarter scoring was 11-11, dribbled through the Trunkers defense consistently to cage three baskets for the New London quint. The reserves have won nine and lost two games.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York —(P)—Specialties, including merchandising and packing stocks, propped today's market with gains of fractions to a point or more.

With news stimulus lacking for the list as a whole, however, many issues were unable to get ahead to any appreciable extent and a number retreated in the final hour.

It was one of the quietest Saturday sessions of the year with transfers totalling around 1,000,000 shares.

While traders apparently were wary of broadening commitments on either side of the market, insistent selling was scarce.

A break in unofficial London copper quotations tripped up some of the red metal shares, but it was thought these were due for at least a moderate technical reaction in view of their lengthy upturn.

Well ahead during the greater part of the proceedings were Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Allied Stores, American Telephone, Paramount, Great Northern Iron Ore, Schenley, Western Union, Mack Truck, Yellow Truck and White Motors.

In a restricted groove were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Loew's, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Quiet Trend in Livestock Trade

Hog Supplies Limited With Prices Virtually Unchanged

Chicago —(P)—With only a few dried hogs on sale, the livestock market was quiet today and prices were virtually unchanged.

The net result of a modest dip in live prices during the week and subsequent recovery yesterday was that the market closed practically at the same level as when it would up the previous week. The volume of receipts was below last week but lower wholesale pork loin prices offset this.

The advance of livestock prices this week was confined largely to the cattle and sheep departments where receipts were below a year ago but about in line with the previous week.

Upward Trend in Wheat Prices in Chicago Trading

Profit-Taking and Improved Crop Conditions Fail to Stop Gains

Chicago —(P)—Despite weekend profit-taking sales and notwithstanding improved weather conditions in the United States winter crop belt, wheat prices closed a little higher today.

Advices from the southwest indicated a more optimistic feeling in regard to the 1937 winter wheat crop, but sentiment here was not especially affected. This was owing to a good deal of reported general lightness of moisture precipitation.

At the close, wheat was 1-1/2 above yesterday's finish, May 1.31-1/2, July 1.13-1/2, corn 1/2 off to 1/4 up, May 1.07-1/2, July 1.02-1/2, oats at 1/2 decline to 1/4 advance, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

Duffy Approves Naming Of McNutt to Position

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Appointment of Paul McNutt, former governor of Indiana, as high commissioner of the Philippines has the hearty approval and endorsement of Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, despite protestations of a Wisconsin organization.

The appointment, recently confirmed by the senate, was protested in a letter to Senator Duffy by Miss Carol Bethke of the Fond du Lac Peace Council.

Duffy replied to Miss Bethke that even if the appointment had not yet been confirmed he would not protest.

He termed the former Indiana governor "a fine outstanding citizen" and said he is glad the United States has the opportunity to utilize his services.

Lutz Fuels Hold Heat Over Night Causes Less Dust

Ice Company Also Offers Famous Coolerator Refrigeration

Personal — Will the lady who went to bed last night in a warm house and awoke this morning in a frigid one remind her husband that it is just as easy to get coal which will hold heat all night as it is to get any other kind? Well known fuels such as Pocahontas, Elk Horn, Clock Coal, Briquettes, Anthracite, and coke, purchased from the Lutz Ice Company, provide the answer for this lady's husband and husbands everywhere whose homes have experienced this common heating problem.

High quality fuels such as these are known to give complete heating satisfaction, clean burning, low ash, and real economy. "Sweep no more my lady," may be the promise of the Lutz Ice Company to purchasers of its fuels because it is clean, sootless coal is free from the dirt-making that many women feel must be endured all through the winter months. Then, too, deliveries are made by courteous drivers with a minimum of fuss and a maximum of care. These are advantages which only a woman can really appreciate. Be prepared for the sudden changes in temperature which we are now experiencing by keeping your bin filled with one of Lutz' brands. "Once called by Lutz—never cold again," is a thought worth remembering which is bound to pay dividends if you follow its advice.

Lutz also suggests that if you have a refrigerator which dries up your food, makes ice cubes which taste like cheese, and presents you with a large operating bill, each month, stop in at their offices and see the new 1937 Air-Conditioned Coolerator. You are bound to be pleased for it is strictly modern, has long life at low cost, safe temperatures, balanced moisture, and features washed, vitalized air. Many proud possessors of the beautiful new Coolerator call it America's finest, safest, most practical, and most economical refrigerator.

OUTAGAMIE EQUITY TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE FOR FARMERS

THE Outagamie Equity Exchange will hold an open house and an all-day program of entertainment and educational features on Saturday, March 6, beginning at 10 a. m., in Armory D, Appleton, to commemorate the John Deere centennial.

"Admission is by ticket only," explains Arthur Staple, manager of the Outagamie Equity, "and if you haven't received tickets, or need more of them for yourself and your family, be sure to ask for them before the day of the show. Tickets are free."

"The Blacksmith's Gift," a historic epic of American agriculture 100 years ago, will be one of the outstanding features of the day's program.

This remarkable picture is an all-Hollywood production, featuring Monte Blue, and that outstanding comedian of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Fuzzy Knight, is a dramatic story of the early settlement of the West. It relates the story of a grave problem that threatened a time to defeat the advance of the early settlers and tells how one man met that difficulty with a solution which changed the course of American history.

In its gripping drama there is sentiment aplenty, but the loquacious Fuzzy Knight as a gossip hanger-on offers a continuous run of comedy. Other leading parts are played by Arthur Aylesworth, Mrs. Harlan, Anne Hovey, John Marlowe, and Claire McDowell.

In addition to this feature production, three other pictures will be shown, including "From One April" a sequel to "The Blacksmith's Gift," "Her Husband's Choice," and a short news reel showing new developments in agricultural methods.

"Her Husband's Choice" is a sequel to "Sheppard and Son," shown last year. You'll see your old friends of former years—Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard, their son, Dick, their daughter Phyllis, her soon-to-be husband, George Barkley, and Jim Brady. It's the story of a modern farm boy and girl planning to start in farming for themselves.

The open house this year is a part of the John Deere Centennial celebration; for it was in 1837, just 100 years ago, that John Deere gave to the world the steel plow.

Modern Trend in Drug Stores Not New to Belling's

Reliable Prescription Druggist Has Served Appleton for Years

A recent "modern" trend in the drug store field has been the one toward that type of store which is in business to serve the family's health and comfort and to work with the doctor, rather than to sell general merchandise.

While Belling's Drug Store, 201 E. College avenue, is in every sense of the word a modern place, there is nothing new about the type of service it has been rendering Appleton for many years.

Belling's is a true "prescription" drug store, where the prescription department is not hidden behind the hardware items. As a result, innumerable families find it the safe, sane and economical practice to bring all prescriptions here for attention and to depend upon the Belling line of standard remedies exclusively.

Good advice costs nothing at Belling's, a feature which has made many friends for the store. Another characteristic has been Belling's understanding of the doctor's requirements and its familiarity with what leading physicians prescribe.

The result is complete satisfaction every time and a complete escape from the danger of improperly filled prescriptions, or prescriptions made with sub-standard ingredients.

Belling's emergency service is also a popular feature of this drug store, and a call to 131 will bring service in a hurry.
